1987 HALL OF FAME HONOREES

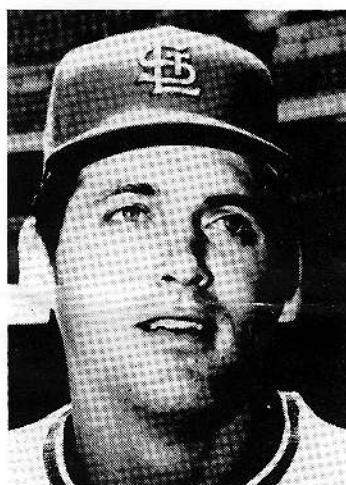

J. D. PARTRIDGE/LIVING ATHLETE

J. D. Partridge epitomizes the adage that good things come in small packages. But this "package" was marked "winner" all the way: his Odessa High School football team was undefeated for three years, he was twice voted Honorable-Mention Little All-American in college football and he fashioned championship careers as a college and high school coach. J. D. participated and lettered in football, basketball and track for three years at Odessa High School, which won the state championship in 1946. He was a scholarship athlete at Texas Western College for four years, elected captain of the football team in 1951 and voted All-Border Conference End for three years, 1949-51 — all at a weight of 155 pounds and mainly playing on defense. When his playing days were over, J. D. added a Master of Arts in Educational Administration in 1958 and administrative and supervisory certificates in 1958 and 1972. He was an assistant coach at Austin High School in El Paso and from 1971 to 1979 headed the Eastwood High School Troopers to two district baseball championships and a bidistrict title. Today he is supervisor of athletics for the Ysleta Independent School District after coaching assignments at Victoria, Andrews, Amarillo and The University of Texas at El Paso.

WALTER DRIVER/LIVING ATHLETE

World War II interrupted what might have been an even more outstanding career for Walter W. Driver. Consider that in 1940, at age 16, he won the Texas State High School Singles Championship and later that summer won the Canadian National Junior Singles and the Eastern Junior Doubles title at Forest Hills. When he was 18 he won the Texas Sectional Junior Singles Championship in Austin followed by the Cotton States Junior Singles in Birmingham, Alabama and was ranked 10th in the nation in Junior Singles. Driver was selected in 1941 as one of the seven players for the United States Junior Davis Cup Team, whose members included Vic Seixas, Budge Patty and James Evert, father of Chris Evert Lloyd. He was one of only 64 players invited to the U.S. National Men's Singles Championships in 1941. World War II interrupted the tournament schedules in 1942 and he began his military career in 1943, serving 20 months in the South Pacific. After the war, Driver won a total of 13 Southwestern championships, including two men's doubles, four men's 35 singles and five men's 35 doubles. There were numerous New Mexico and Arizona state championships. Interspersed was a successful business career as a developer and contractor, an active civic and social life and his role as devoted husband and father of four children. Walter Driver is a real winner.

JOE HAGUE/LIVING ATHLETE

Joe Hague was a "natural" when it came to baseball; and he didn't stand in the back when it came to football and basketball. Hague had all the tools needed for a strong major league career with the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds after burning up the minor leagues, particularly the strong Pacific Coast League. He led the PCL in 1968 in total bases, was a member of the league's All-Star Team and a regular on the championship Tulsa Oilers. His performance sent him to St. Louis in late 1968 where he played for four years, earning respect as a power hitter and oft-used pinch-hitter. Traded to Cincinnati in 1972, he was a key substitute when All-Star Tony Perez was injured, and helped the Reds into the 1972 World Series. Joe's remarkable athletic career began at Bel Air High School where he hit in every game and averaged close to 600 in District play in 1962. He was chosen All-District in football on the offensive and defensive teams and continued his football career at UT Austin as a standout on the Longhorn's freshman team. But baseball won out for Joe in his sophomore year and his outstanding play earned him a spot on the All-Southwest Conference Baseball Team for two years. Following his athletic career, Joe returned to UT El Paso to earn his Bachelor of Business Administration degree. He is now a successful builder and realtor in San Antonio.

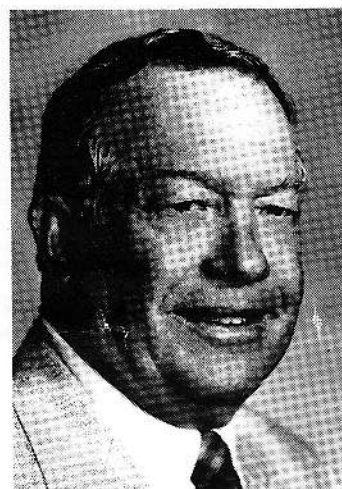

LARRY STUBING/COACH-ADMINISTRATOR

Larry (Moose) Stubing has used sports as a stepping-stone to a highly successful career as a baseball manager and coach, and basketball official. Moose has worked in six National Invitational Basketball Tournaments and four National Collegiate Association playoffs. He has worked all of the Western Athletic Conference Tournaments and other college basketball games; but baseball remains his bread and butter. The New York native participated in all sports while attending high school in the Bronx but turned down a football scholarship to Penn State to work in the minor leagues as a pitcher and first-baseman. His tour of duty took him to Selma, Alabama; St. Cloud, Minnesota; Springfield Massachusetts; Harlingen, Texas; Tacoma, Washington; Puerto Rico; Victoria, Texas; Empolone, Massachusetts; and finally to El Paso in 1963-64. He ended his active career and went into business in El Paso in 1966, but was lured back as a pinch-hitter and coach for El Paso in 1967-68. In November, 1984 he was named the California Angels third-base coach, a position he retains today.

K. C. BROWN/COACH-ADMINISTRATOR

K. C. Brown was synonymous with athletic success in El Paso during the 1940s and 1950s as the affable coach guided El Paso High School in football, track and basketball. A prelude to K. C.'s outstanding coaching successes was his record as a high school and college athlete. He was selected to the Kansas All-State High School Football Team as a guard in his junior and senior years at Ottawa High School. He was named to the All-Kansas Collegiate Conference in his sophomore, junior and senior years at Baker University. K. C. came to El Paso High School in 1943 as B-team football coach, B-team basketball coach and varsity track coach. From 1944 to 1949 he was head football coach at El Paso and won the district championship in 1945. He transferred to Austin High School in 1950 where he served as assistant football coach and head baseball coach. At Austin, he won 347 baseball games while losing only 157 and won nine district titles, three bidistrict championships, two regional titles and placed third in the state tourney on two different occasions. He was named El Paso Coach of the Year in Track in 1944, Coach of the Year in Football in 1945 and six times chosen Coach of the Year in Baseball. K. C. served the El Paso Independent School District as an outstanding teacher and coach for 32 years before retiring in 1974.

JAMES MALONE/OFFICIALS' AWARD

Jim Malone was a football official who got compliments from both sides when he worked a ballgame, a tribute to his fairness and knowledge. Malone lettered three years in football and basketball at Austin High School and two years at Texas College of Mines (now UT El Paso) before concluding his active playing career at the University of New Mexico, playing for the Lobos in the 1946 Sun Bowl. He officiated high school and Border Conference games from 1948 until 1961 and was a valued member of the Western Athletic Conference Officiating Staff from 1962 until 1978. He worked seven postseason bowl games including the Sun, Fiesta, Hula and Liberty classics. John Adams, supervisor of the WAC football officials, said Malone's 17 years as a member of the Western Athletic Conference Football Officiating Staff were marked by outstanding contributions to collegiate football. "Pride in excellence was a trait most noticed by peers while players and coaches benefitted from Jim's helpful, understanding knowledge. He is a winner in life and one of the rare people who leaves an endeavor much stronger following participation," Adams said.

BILL MACATEE/MEDIA AWARD

Bill Macatee has parlayed a sound knowledge of sports, boyish good looks and an uncanny aptitude for being in the right place to become the top sportscaster for the National Broadcasting Company. A regular contributor and sports correspondent for the Today Show, Macatee is periodic host for NBC Sportsworld, weekend studio host for NBC Sports and has worked the Major League Game of the Week as well as its pregame show. He has been involved in five Super Bowls, four Wimbledon tennis tournaments, three World Series, All-Star games, Final Four Collegiate Basketball — all of the major sports events on national television. He was chosen Best Sportscaster by the Associated Press in 1978 and 1982. Macatee was born in Rome, New York and moved with his military family to El Paso in 1968. He attended Ross Junior High School and Burges High School, participating in varsity football, track and wrestling. He chairs an Advisory Council/Journalism program at New Mexico State University and often visits his parents who still live in El Paso.
